

Affidavit of Mary Lou Taylor

I, Mary Lou Taylor, being duly sworn, say as follows:

1. In 1946, Hugh B. Brown was a professor at Brigham Young University. I was employed as his secretary during this time for two hours a day while I was attending BYU.
2. During that time, he dictated the attached letter to me that is dated November 8, 1946.
3. I asked if I could type a copy of the letter for myself.
4. Hugh B. Brown agreed to let me do that on the condition that the name of the person would be removed.
5. Other than missing the name of the recipient, the language of my copy of the letter is the same as the original.
6. A true and correct copy of the copy of the letter that I made for myself is attached hereto.
7. After the signature line, it indicates that Hugh B. Brown dictated the content of the letter, Mary Lou Dixon took it down in shorthand and then transcribed and typed it. The 'HBB' stands for Hugh B. Brown and 'mld' stands for Mary Lou Dixon, which was my maiden name. The final draft was reviewed and then Hugh B. Brown signed the copy that was sent to the recipient.
8. The quotation that appears at the bottom of the last page of the November 8th letter was not part of the content of the letter that was sent to the original recipient. It was a quote that I liked from another letter that he had dictated to me. I wanted to remember his exact quote, so I included it at the end of the November 8th letter.
9. The handwriting on the first page is my own. It says, "Lost Faith in God, Immortality and ready to chuck it all."
